

Xinsong WANG: Assistant professor of the School of Social Development and Public Policy at Beijing Normal University. His fields of study are Chinese politics and comparative politics. His recent research projects examine civic engagement in urban China, and accountability and responsiveness in community governance. Wang has taught courses in comparative politics, political development, international politics and Chinese politics, etc. He received his Ph.D. and M.A. in political science from Georgia State University in the U.S. and his B.A. in English and International Studies from Foreign Affairs College in China.

Email : xinsong@bnu.edu.cn