

Accommodation Fee and Luggage Storage Fee Charging Scheme for International Students During the Delayed 2020 Spring Semester Start

1. The accommodation fee (from January 27 to one week before the new registration date of spring semester) of students who left the school before February 5, but did not check out before leaving will be waived. The accommodation fee already paid will be transferred to the accommodation fee of spring semester.

2. The accommodation fee of students who do not leave the apartment will be charged normally. For those who need to check out before the semester starts, the accommodation fee will be charged according to the long-term student standard and the actual number of days they live in the apartment.

3. If you left the apartment after February 5 but did not check out, the normal accommodation fee will be charged. If you have any special circumstances, please contact the front desk of the apartment to apply for check-out. The apartment will deduct the accommodation fee according to the day of application, and the remaining room fee will be transferred to the accommodation fee of spring semester.

4. The apartment management will transfer the accommodation deposit paid for spring semester to the accommodation fee of spring semester. If you do not return to the apartment in spring semester, the deposit will not be refunded.

5. If you check out during the winter holiday, the accommodation fee (from January 27 to one week before the new start date of spring semester) will be charged according to the long-term student standard. If your fee has already been charged according to the short-term student standard, the overcharged part will be transferred to the accommodation fee of spring semester.

6. The storage fee of luggage deposited in the apartment from January 27, 2020 to one week before the new registration date of spring semester will be waived.

Student Residence Service Center

February 14, 2020